

Child Health Manager

Track your child's health and development through WebMD's Child Health Manager.

What can child Health Manager do for me?

Using the Health Record, you can:

- Decide what information to store, which family members have access to it, and under what circumstances the information may be used.
- Identify potentially harmful interactions between medications, herbs, vitamins, and allergies.
- Prepare a pre-visit questionnaire for your child's doctor that allows you to fit more than 30 minutes worth of relevant information into a typical seven-minute visit.
- Combine your medical information from multiple sources into one accessible, secure location.

- Track your child's lab test results and other measurements, such as weight and height.
- Learn more about your child's health status.
- Obtain objective medical information about the conditions, drugs, and other items entered in their Health Record.
- Receive drug interaction alerts and immunization reminders in your secure Message Center inbox.
- Fax a summary of the information you've recorded to any of your child's healthcare providers.
